

Media release

December 2009

Cucumbers galore from Terranova Seeds

2010 will see the launch of 5 new continental Cucumbers into the Terranova Seeds range.

Botannic, Mason, Maroon, Wirra and Yoshi have all been trialed in major growing areas and have shown very high levels of performance across a wide range of growing conditions and temperature regimes.

Trial programmes have shown that these varieties perform differently from one location and resulted in identifying the correct growing slots by regions for the varieties.

These 5 new varieties compliment Terranova's existing varieties York and Corolla well and expand the choice available to growers across Australia.

As the trial programme has shown that variety specific programming and technical support is required to maximise the marketable yield across our range it is important to contact your local Terranova Seeds Territory Manager to gain the correct advice as to which variety is best suited to your specific requirements and planting times.

For further details on this media release visit www.tnseeds.com or call (02) 9725 1066